1. 授業目的・方法(Course objective and method) This course offers opportunities to practice intercultural communication in reality. Virtual communication has enabled journeying across countries without leaving the classrooms. Although difference in time zones poses challenges for inviting speakers from other countries, afternoon classes can more easily accommodate guests from Africa, Eastern Europe and South Asia. Students will converse with those overseas in English and experience cultural diversities online. 2. 達成目標(Course Goals) Students will be familiarized with foreign culture, ways of thinking, as well as manner of conversation, by means of direct communication with people in Africa and Eastern Europe. 3. 授業内容(Course contents) Class 1 Introduction 2-5 Telecommunication with Hungary 6-9 Telecommunication with Kenya 10-14 Telecommunication with Djibouti 15 Wrap up 4. 事前学修・事後学修(Preparation and review) Students are requested to prepare questions to ask the guests before each class. Prepared questions should be submitted on Manaba page. After each class, students will write a summary of discussion. 5. 使用教材(Teaching materials) Sumiyo Nishiguchi (2021) Sound and Meaning in East Cushitic Languages: Dhaasanac, Burji, Rendille, Somali, and Afar, Springer 6. 成績評価の方法(Grading) Evaluation will be based on classroom activities and assignments on Manaba. 7. 成績評価の基準(Grading Criteria) Passing the course requires contributions on active discussions with online guests, and weekly submission of assignments. 8. 履修上の注意事項(Remarks) Discriminatory statements and intrusion into personal affairs should be carefully avoided.
